

Contacts: Barry Baum, NETS Basketball, 917-847-1737
Mark Lane, Barclays, 212-412-1413
John Marino, Out2Play, 212-889-0808

June 18, 2009

BARCLAYS, THE NETS, FOREST CITY RATNER, MANHATTAN BOROUGH
PRESIDENT SCOTT STRINGER, AND OUT2PLAY TO UNVEIL
A NEW PLAYGROUND IN HARLEM TOMORROW

Ribbon-Cutting to be Held Friday, June 19, at Noon.

--Second Playground Developed by Barclays/NETS Community Alliance--

New York, NY – The Barclays/Nets Community Alliance, which includes a partnership among Barclays, the Nets, and Forest City Ratner Companies (FCRC), will join with Manhattan Borough President Scott Stringer and the non-profit organization Out2Play to unveil a new playground to be shared by Public School 175 and Promise Academy I Elementary School at 175 West 134th Street in Harlem TOMORROW, Friday, June 19 at noon.

A ribbon-cutting dedication ceremony will include Borough President Stringer, who served as the public sponsor of the playground, representatives from the Barclays/Nets Community Alliance, representatives from Out2Play, the non-profit organization which built the playground, school administrators, parents and the students of P.S. 175 and Promise Academy I Elementary School. Also in attendance will be Nets mascot Sly and two of the Nets Dancers.

The schoolyard at P.S. 175 and Promise Academy I Elementary School in Harlem will now feature a new play structure with monkey bars, slides, and a climbing wall as well as basketball courts and a painted track and field location. The project is one of 40 that Out2Play will complete this year.

This will mark the second newly developed playground funded in part by a $150,000 grant by the Barclays/Nets Community Alliance to Out2Play, which has a mission of building playgrounds at economically disadvantaged New York City public schools. Created in November 2007, the Barclays/Nets Community Alliance is committed to the physical and educational development of youth in Brooklyn and surrounding communities.

WHO: Manhattan Borough President Scott Stringer, representatives from the Barclays/Nets Community Alliance, representatives from Out2Play, school administrators, students from P.S. 175 and Promise Academy I Elementary School, Nets mascot Sly, and two Nets Dancers.

WHAT: Dedication ceremony of new playground.

WHEN: TOMORROW, Friday, June 19, noon to 1 p.m.

WHERE: Playground at P.S. 175 and Promise Academy I Elementary School, 175 West 134th Street in Harlem.